

Citizens of Heaven

The Task for Christians with Hope for our Culture

Saturday June 8th 2013, 11am - 3pm

What does our Society need from us?
If we find culture intimidating can we still make a difference?

Rudi Hayward introduces the idea of 'Sphere Sovereignty', which calls us to action in the knowledge that every activity has its natural tasks to do and boundaries to keep.

Then, as a practical example, David Henningham describes Lambert Zuidervaart's book 'Art in Public', which uses similar ideas to argue in favour of Government arts funding.

St Barnabas Church
Shacklewell Row
Dalston
London E8 2EA

FREE

All are welcome.

11:00 Tea & Coffee

11:30 Rudi Hayward: Understanding our task in God's world

12:00 Discussion

12:30 Lunch

1:30 David Henningham: Are Artists Entitled to Public Money? A Sphere Sovereignty Solution?

2:00 Discussion

2:30 Tea & Coffee

3:00 End

Rudi Hayward teaches RE and Philosophy in a London comprehensive. He holds an MA in Modern European Philosophy and has a special interest in Reformational Philosophy.

David Henningham is an Artist, Author and half of the Henningham Family Press. They make prints and books about money, history and religion. Collections that have acquired their work include Victoria & Albert Museum, the Tate, Saison Poetry Library (Royal Festival Hall). They have exhibited/performed in Christie's Auction House, the British Library, BBC Radio Theatre, London Word Festival, Berlin, Ghent, Oslo, Bergen, Indiana and Virginia.

You can turn up unexpectedly, but please RSVP rudijhayward@googlemail.com if at all possible.

You can bring/buy your own lunch, but if you give us a crisp £5 note on the way in we will provide you with local hot Turkish Pide (which is like a boat-shaped pizza. Vegetarian options available and highly recommended).

Program by SEESOCS

Hosted by St Barnabas Church, Dalston